Nick Cecconi Leads Getthere as Interim Director

Nick Cecconi and Katie Blaine are serving as Getthere's Interim Director and Interim Assistant Director, respectively, after Raini Baudendistel stepped down from the director position last week.

Nick was hired as the Broome-Tioga Mobility Management Project (BTMMP) Coordinator in 2011 overseeing a small team at the Getthere Call Center then based at the United Way of Broome County. Since that time, Nick has been an integral part of Getthere's growth. His keen understanding of mobility management and knowledge of transportation resources coupled with his desire to see Getthere, its clients, and partners thrive make him an excellent choice to take the helm during this transition.

Nick will be working closely with Katie who had worked as Getthere's Transportation to Employment Program Coordinator for the past two and a half years. Nick and Katie, along with Getthere's team of Mobility and Transportation Advocates, will continue to deliver high quality service to our clients in order to help remove transportation as a barrier to health care and employment.

Kenneth Hauer Joins Getthere as a Mobility Transportation Advocate

Getthere is happy to welcome Kenneth Hauer as our newest

Mobility Transportation Advocate (MTA)! MTAs assist individuals contacting the Getthere Call Center in need of transportation to health-related services through comprehensive case management.

"My main focus of joining Getthere is to help the people of Broome and surrounding counties with all their transportation needs. I come to Getthere with 15 years of experience as a paratransit dispatcher at Broome County Transit. In my spare time, I enjoy hanging out with my two boys, running my antique shop, Little Red Fox Antiques, on Main Street in Johnson City, and am the Vice President of Little Italy Endicott."

Meet Getthere's Staff

Getthere is lucky to have a team of hardworking, compassionate problem solvers that are dedicated to helping our clients and program partners navigate transportation resources safely and independently. Our team works to remove barriers to transportation and improve the health and wellness of our community everyday.
