

Mobility Management of South Central New York

Mobility Management of South Central New York (MMSCNY) is a program of the Rural Health Network of South Central New York serving Broome, Tioga, Chenango, Otsego, and Delaware counties. Along with its partners, it seeks to improve transportation access and coordination in the region, and particularly, its rural communities.

Key Initiatives of Mobility Management of South Central New York since 2011:

Getthere Call Center: The first initiative of the MMSCNY is a one-stop transportation and mobility call center.

Connection To Care: CTC maintains and improves the health of low-income, transportation-disadvantaged individuals by providing cost-effective transportation to physical and mental health services.

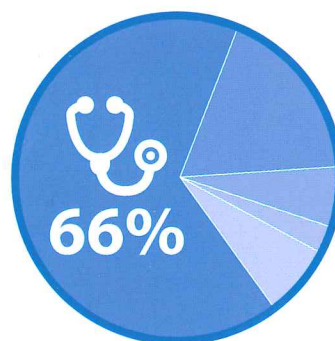

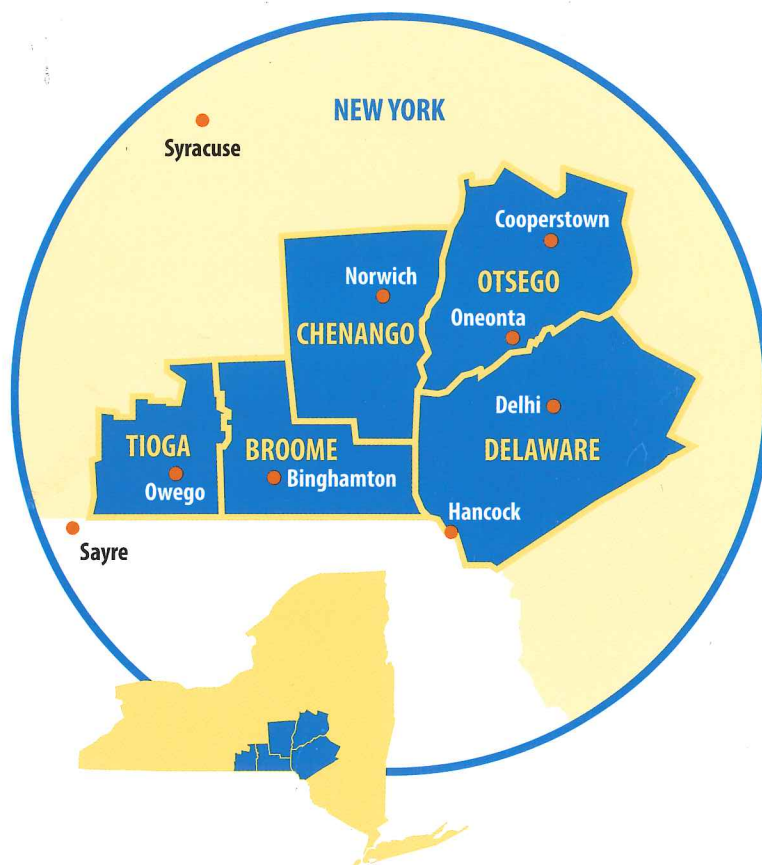

Travel Training: Easterseals™-accredited travel training to help the public, but especially elderly, youth, and individuals with disabilities, learn how to effectively and confidently use public transportation.

Voucher Program: Allows the most vulnerable Medicaid recipients to access destinations and services essential to the recipient's health and well-being for which Medicaid funded transportation is not available.
